“ I had the pleasure of knowing Jessica since elementary at Juarez-Lincoln. My brother and I attended the Border View YMCA and we were blessed to be under the care of her grandmother, Mrs. Meraz (who was like a grandmother to us all). Vaguely kept in touch after middle school but the memories of elementary, riding along in the brown van, growing up together, sharing her grandmother and all the fun activities we did, will be cherished. My heart is broken for her family and children. Sending my condolences and prayers to all. Truly sorry for this sudden and heartbreaking loss. I find comfort that she is now in heaven with the beautiful and loving, Mrs. Meraz. Rest In Heaven, Jessica. Watch over your loved ones.

“ There are just too many memories to share about my old friend, Jessica. She was such a memorable person from my childhood. I'll never forget all our years growing up together from Juarez Lincoln through Montgomery days. We had the best sleepovers, shared lots of laughs, made stupid mistakes, and laughed at ourselves over those mistakes and grew from them. I'm sad that I didn't get to know much about Jessica after our youth but my heart and prayers are with all of her family! God bless you my dear friend.

“ My beautiful memory of Jessica is her first year of life when I had the pleasure of taking care of her, she was a beautiful little girl and I had so much fun watching her grow and learn. I didn't drive then so we walked everywhere or took the bus but it was always an adventure. I was very sad when she moved back to San Diego and I missed her so. I was happy to get to be her Nina from her first Holy Communion. Jessica grew up to be a strong independent women and still beautiful, she went through a lot of tough times but always seemed to stay strong. I was always so happy to see her those rare times cause she moved around a lot and had her own beautiful little family. Jessica, I will miss you so much you will always forever have a piece of my heart. Rest In Peace my sweet Jessica. Love you always Nina Jenny❤️🌹😊
