“ The entire county of San Diego has lost a true loving and caring person. Integrity, honesty and compassion are just a few of the words that can define the way he lived his life. He encouraged others around him to follow suit. He was always a great example for anyone that had opportunity to interact with him. Anyone that knew him could not help but love him and that stern look he would give you when you might be riding the guardrails of a conversation and not staying inside his lines of thought. I am very fortunate that I am from the same business and industry that Roger spent his career in and retired about three times from. We could discuss buildings, codes, financing, real estate, types of homes, roof structures and I could bounce just about any crazy idea off him and he would set me straight. I am a better grand father, father, husband , brother and person having him in my life. I will truly miss his wonderful laugh and smile. We all still love you Roger, I will continue to bounce crazy ideas off you.

*Love,

I knew Roger back in the late 90's early 00's he helped me with a few ideas - I just came across his business card and thought I'd look him up - he must now be constructing up in the sky!!... good memories!
