“ I wish I could of had more time with you. More time for you to have spent with your grandchildren. More time to be able to sit down and just talk to you about random things and listen to your stories you would tell me. I keep thinking about the last phone call I had with you. The last time I heard your voice. I go over every word you told me that day. I wish I could rewind time. Every day I wake up and I think about you. I think about the times you did anything in your power to make me happy. The times I would sit on your lap and hug you when you would get home from work. All the pets you would get me even though my mom would get mad. We will always share our love for animals. I pray that you have finally found peace and that you are no longer in pain. Thank you for everything you did for us. I never got the chance to tell you that. I hope you can give me the strength to go on. Know you will always be in my heart. Goodbyes are not forever. Goodbyes are not the end. They simply mean I will miss you until we meet again. I love you dad❤️

“ My fondest memories of Mario's dad.... Every time we would visit him, he always gave the kids bags of candies and toys that he just happened to have stashed away. He wanted to make sure the kids went home with something.

I've brought home dolls, rocking horses, antique tricycles...(like where did he find this stuff?) And every now and then I had to reject a live animal of some sort. 😊

But no matter what he was going through or struggling with, he always wanted to know how all his grandkids were doing. I appreciated how much he loved them and cared for them. He would tell the funniest stories. Later I would find out that he wasn't making them up, although they were a little exaggerated, but they were true! 😂

I hope he finds my dad and brother in heaven. I know they will get along very well.

Thank you for being a great father to Mario. Your son is truly an amazing husband, father, brother and uncle.

❤️ Raquel
